To know Jimmy was to like him. He was a fine complement to his father, Charlie, in their building business. My heart goes out to the Carroll family in their tragic loss. God bless. Gilda Blackstock

Like Charlie, Jimmy was honest and caring. I lost my father the same way, and I know, like him, I will always remember Jimmy as being someone that was honest, caring, loyal, and just the type of person you'd want to try your best for. Certainly someone to be revered forever and someone who I will always feel in debt to. Thank you for everything, Jimmy....

There was no more honest, honorable and more gentle people than Jim and Charlie Carroll who I had the privilege to represent for many years in the real estate business. You knew if either of them told you they were going to do something extra to make their customers happy by going the extra mile, Charlie and Jim's word was gold. I was happy under the circumstances to have just had a visit with Jim in my office 2 weeks ago and I can't help but remember his big smile and the pride that he showed for his son who worked with him and was along for the visit. I always considered the Carroll family as more than clients but rather close friends who I will dearly miss. I wish the best for Jim's children and especially Carol who is a special person and who has been dealt 2 very difficult losses in a very short time. After practicing law for 41 years it is sad for me to lose 2 of my best friends and clients in such a short time. I will miss them and their friendship beyond any words that I could express. Rest in peace my friends. Mike Lombard
