“ Barbara Jackson lit a candle in memory of Mr. Joseph E. Henrick Sr.

“ Joe was my downstairs neighbor for the 3 years I have lived in North Andover. Despite his physical limitations, he would always get up to hold the outside door to our building if he saw me carrying groceries or packages. Knowing how much I liked Hershey kisses, he would many times surprise me with a little gift. Joe was a kind man, who loved people and animals. I once showed up at his door with a baby goat I was fostering for the MSPCA. He fell in love with it, and it became a standing joke about : "when was I going to bring him a goat to adopt?" Like all of us, Joe had his flaws, but the good in him outweighed them by far. I will miss him a lot.

“ Rest In Peace Joe. My grandmother (Jane Tabor-Dowd) was good friends with Joe for many years. My maternal grandfather passed many years before I was born, so back in the very early 90's when I was only a few years old, Joe used to visit our home in Lowell with her. Occasionally a dollar would find it's way to me, and one time he gifted me a little red plastic fire boat for my birthday. I distinctly remember asking Joe if he was my other grandfather at one point. He said he was just a friend, but you could tell he was someone special just by the warmth of his heart and the kindness of his voice. That was almost 30 years ago. My mother found out a few days ago that Joe had passed while glancing through the Eagle Tribune, we were all taken aback for a moment. We'd also been visiting my only living grandfather who's currently in hospice and will also pass in the coming days. God bless Joe and his family, he was truly a special man.
